LOCAL NEWS.

The Old Kentucky Hills.

Oh, these Old Kentucky hills!
There's no other place so fine,
With their summits clothed in timber
Of an hundred different kind.
Oh, is it any wonder then,
That my heart with rapture thrills
To roam these Old Kentucky hills,
On these Old Kentucky hills.
Oh, the Old Kentucky hills,
Where my boyhood days were spent,
When off into the forest then
To hunt for squirrels best
Many are the shoots I've shot
At the squirrel one never kills,
But how happy were the days I've spent Among these Old Kentucky hills.
Oh, the Old Kentucky hills,
There's no other place so grand,
With their ever flowing fountains
Of the purest in the land.
Many sights are seen abroad
Which the heart with nature thrills,
But there's nothing half the equal
Of my Old Kentucky hills.
Ah, ye Old Kentucky hills,
How it fills my heart all through
To think that on some future day
I must bid you all adieu;
But when at last my race is run,
If my Father only will,
I wish to find a resting place
Among the Old Kentucky hills.

Valuable Property For Sale.

On Saturday, the 26th day of August, 1905, the residence and ten acres of ground, situated on the Jamestown road in the town of Columbia, and known as the Mrs. Mollie Patterson's property. This is very desirable property and one of the best homes in Columbia. Good water, excellent young orchard, electric light near the door and all necessary outbuildings. The property will be sold to the highest bidder, terms made known on day of sale. For further information address
W. B. PATTERSON,

Mr. Green B. Smith, who recently purchased the Russell Springs Hotel, regrets very much to leave Columbia. He has become attached to the people here—no better, he says, can be found anywhere, and he does not say he will not return to the community. It is only a matter of business that has induced him to make preparation to leave Columbia. An advance on what he paid for the hotel would retain him here.

Rev. T. J. Winfrey, who was known to quite a number of Adair county people, dropped dead at Jamestown last Thursday. He was a Republican in politics and a few months ago was a prominent candidate for Judge of the County Court of Russell. He had served the county as jailer and had filled other honorable positions. He leaves a wife and several children.

Last Wednesday evening Miss Alice Walker gave a hay ride in honor of her numerous friends about town. There were twenty or thirty young ladies and gentlemen and a gayety rarely seen on our principal streets and at the same time happy voices made the welkin ring. Before dismissing the party was driven to Mr. Walker's farm where an elegant repast was served.

Mr. Herbert McLean and sister, Miss Virge McLean, visited the Sulphur Well in Taylor county, from Saturday until Monday. Mr. McLean reports business rushing at the Morrisana, the hotel being crowded with guests every day.

Mr. Nathan H. Putnam, who was a prominent merchant of Lebanon, at one time a general merchant at Columbia and well-known in Adair county, died suddenly on a train in North Dakota last Monday morning. His wife was with him. He was a fine business man, honest and respected by all who knew him.

The will of the late Judge J. W. Butler was admitted to probate last Monday. The decedent devised all his property of every kind to his wife, and requested her to make suitable provisions for his adopted daughter, Mrs. W. E. Bradshaw. The will was dated March 27, 1905.

H. T. Baker, Master Commissioner, sold the following tracts of land last Monday: Thirty-five acres belonging to the estate of Tim Bennett to S. A. Hatcher for $366. One hundred acres in the suit of Mary C. Hudson against Robt. Hudson was sold to Frank Sinclair for $105. This tract lies in the Green River section.

Mrs. Trabe Shearer has presented this office with three tomatoes, weighing 34 pounds. They are perfectly sound and in good shape. She also left a sup of delicious grapes. In the cultivation of this fruit Mrs. Shearer has been very successful this season having gathered fifteen gallons from one vine.

Obituary.

Maggie Russell Wade was born March 4, 1885, died July 27, 1905. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Russell; of Watson, Ky. She and W. H. Wade were married August 24, 1902. She leaves one child, a little fair haired girl.

The last eighteen months of her life was spent on the bed of affliction. Her brain was affected and her case was incurable. For months before she died her hearing and sight were destroyed. Through all her suffering she never complained, for she put her trust in the Savior many months ago. Three weeks before she died she told her mother she hoped they would all meet her in the Summer Land of Love. She is beyond the fever and the pain, sorrow and the tumult of this world, and is sleeping near where she so often played when a girl, and where she was borne by loving relatives and friends as the sun was sinking in the West the eve of the day after she died.

Happy rest, how peaceful, tranquil, satisfying!

How gently it seems to round and smooth the turmoil of a life, which, though short, was full of bitter sorrows and cares.

She rests in a quiet spot where the meadow grass shall soon grow above her head, where the stars and the skies shall bend quietly over her still.—By one who knew her worth.

For Sale.

One day last week Mr. Stephen Conover celebrated his 70th birthday. Over one hundred persons were present before whom was spread a most magnificent dinner. All who had the honor of an invitation say the day was happily enjoyed. Mr. Conover received a number of useful presents.

There will be an all day meeting at Pleasant Hill the third Sunday in this month. Preaching by EM. Vertess.

Great Trouble Foreseen.

It needs but little foresight, to tell that when your stomach and liver are badly affected, grave trouble is ahead, unless you take the proper medicine for your disease, as Mrs. John A. Young, of Clay, N. Y., did. She says: "I had neuralgia of the liver and stomach, my heart was weakened, and I could not eat. I was very bad for a long time, but in Electric Bitters, I found just what I needed, for they quickly relieved and cured me." Best medicine for weak women. Sold under guarantee by T. E. Paull, druggist, at Joe a bottle.

To the citizens of Adair county: The undersigned are in the tombstone business at Campbellville, Ky. Campbellville is your neighbor, and as you have no manufacturer of this work in Columbia, would it not be to your interest to patronize us? We guarantee satisfaction both in quality of work and price. We solicit work from Adair and adjoining counties.

An Encouraging Outlook.

If any democrat is disposed to take a gloomy view of the future let him find encouragement in a review of the last few years.

The demand for the popular election of senators has grown. The proposition never received endorsement in congress until thirteen years ago. Since that time the proposed amendment has carried in the house of representatives four times. It has been endorsed by two-thirds of the states and by two democratic national platforms. It will come.

The protective tariff is becoming more and more odious as it becomes more apparent that the manufacturers are exhorting from the people at home while they sell abroad in competition with the world. Tariff reform will come. And the deficit during the last fiscal year suggests the advisability of an income tax.

The trusts are exciting more and more opposition as their methods become known. "Private monopolies" are indefensible and intolerable and all of them must sooner or later be exterminated. The growth of municipal ownership has been phenomenal and men of all parties are supporting that plan in all the cities.

The railroads have had their own way. They have watered their stock and discriminated between persons and places; but they will be brought under government control.

The Philippine situation is proving the correctness of the democratic position. The islands are a burden in peace and a weakness in war. A colonial policy provides at all times a repudiation of our theory of government, and ultimate independence is the only solution.

The labor question demands settlement along democratic lines and each year's delay emphasizes the necessity for relief.

The quantitative theory of money has been established and the benefit of a large volume of currency has been demonstrated.

President Roosevelt's popularity has been won by the advocacy of democratic policies and will be lost if he fails to make good.

Why should democrats not find encouragement in the situation? The outlook surely grows brighter day by day.—W. J. Bryan.

Sanct and Sensible.

It is a comfort to find that, after the most careful work in the feed lot and on the block with beef and dairy types of steers, the Iowa Experiment Station reaches the following conclusion: says National Stockman. "It is neither profitable nor desirable to feed steers of dairy type for beef purposes. They are unsatisfactory to the consumer because they do not furnish thick and well marbled cuts; they are unsatisfactory to the butcher because they furnish low grade carcasses which are difficult to dispose of, and they are decidedly unsatisfactory to the feeder, because they yield him little or no profit, and both breeder and feeder waste their time in producing such a type of steer for beef purposes."

There is nothing new or strange about this. Practical feeders and killer have known it for a long time. But every now and then somebody who doesn't know what a good steer is or what prime beef is bobs up and declares that dairybred steers and beef are as good as any. Now that the contrary has been demonstrated in a scientific way (it is demonstrated in a business way every market day) let us remember it. There is no need to waste time or lose money on dairy steers in the feed lot any more than on beef cows in the dairy.

Parents do wrong in keeping their children hanging around home in idleness and sheltered and enervated by parental indulgence. The eagle does better. It stirs up its nest when the young eagles are able to fly. They are compelled to shift for themselves for the old eagle literally turns them out and at the same time tears all the down and feathers from the nest. 'Tis this rude and rough experience that makes the king of birds so fearless in his flight and so expert in his pursuit of prey. It is a misfortune to be born with a silver spoon in your mouth. Riches often hang like a millstone about the necks of ambitious young people.

Poisons in Food.

Perhaps you don't realize that many pain poisons originate in your food, but some day you may feel a twinge of dyspepsia that will convince you. Dr. Kings New Life Pills are guaranteed to cure all sickness due to poisons of undigested food or money back. See at T. E. Paul's drug store. Try them.

The conductors and brakeman on the Norfolk & Western got to be such dudes and mashers that the company had to issue an order forbidding them to wear or accept flowers. Some of them got so that they were a walking flower garden. Strikes us that the company is unreasonably interfering with personal rights. A man should be allowed to make himself as attractive as possible and it certainly couldn't hurt the road to have its employs popular with the ladies.

Mother's Vacation.

During the hot enervating days now upon us, it is better to feed the family on bread and milk, or let them "forage" for themselves awhile, and give the tired mother a vacation, than to keep her grilling over a hot cook stove turning our roasts, pies, cakes and other "cooked things" to please capricious or voracious appetites of the family. Mother is the least of the family to think she needs a vacation. Indeed, if you should hint such a thing to her she is usually surprised into speechlessness at the folly of such a suggestion. She would tell you that such a thing was utterly impossible. There is so much necessary work, these days, that can not possibly be shirked, she thinks; and really, when you sit down and think of it, you are almost persuaded that she is right. No one could be so ill spared as mother. She must not neglect the putting up of her fruits and filling her shelves with the product of the fields and gardens; then there is butter, and in many families, cheese to make, and nobody can do all this but mother. The poultry must be looked after too, and in the multitude of her duties, she forgets that she owes a higher duty to her family than merely to look after their material wants. She forgets that it is her duty to look after herself; to attend to keeping herself well awake, wholesome and healthful both mentally and physically. Mother too often becomes a machine and grinds away as any other machine does until it breaks down or wears out, and then, patching herself up temporarily with drugs or drenchings, she goes on a little further, "even unto the end." And the pity of it is, that her family will let her do it; they even get to expecting it of her, and accepting it as their right, go blindly on, always pushing her, into the back-ground which she seems to like best, until some day the cord will snap, the wheels get out of gear, and—they will sit down helplessly and wonder how they can ever get along without mother.

Now, girl, just give mother a thought. See that she has her vacation too. She won't have many more of them, but she ought to at least have a rest, and a change of scene. Cannot you advise one for her?—The Commoner.

What Do You Say.

Paducah has a "hoss" case in court which promises to be extremely interesting. A man had a mare worth $800. She injured herself in such a way that it was decided to kill her. The owner hired a negro to take her to the country and kill her. The negro sold her for $2 and came back and reported that he had killed her and was paid $2 for the job. The former owner has discovered his mare, which is in fine condition and again worth money, her purchaser having cured her. He demands possession and damages for her detention. The present owner denies the claim of the former owner, but asks $500 for the trouble and expense of curing her.

Brain Jacks.

The man who never fails never tries.

A home without love is merely a stopping place.

It is easy to make excuses for those we love.

God's throne is not reached by way of the back pews.

The man who would be young again should cultivate a young spirit.

When a man begins wondering if he looks his age it is a sure sign he does.

Always speak the truth, but don't forget that it is often wise not to speak at all.

The man who enjoys what little he has is far better off than the man who has everything and enjoys nothing.

What has become of all the old men who could cradle ten acres of wheat a day when they were in their prime?

Things would doubtless taste just as good now as they did when we were boys if we had boys' appetites.

No matter how rank the grass grows in your yard, if your neighbor goes visiting and asks your boy to take care of his yard, the neighbor's yard always looks well.

"Myself And Me."

George M. Cohen, the actor and author, is always scribbling at something. If it is not a bit of dialogue for a play, it is a bit of doggerel—beg pardon, He handed out what he choose to call "Myself and Me" a few days ago. Here it is:

I'm the best pal that I ever had,
I like to be with me,
I like to sit and tell myself
Things confidentially.
I often sit and ask me
If I shouldn't, or I should,
And I find that my advice to me
Is always pretty good.
I never got acquainted with myself.

Till here of late,
And I find myself a bully chum,
I treat me simply great,
I talk with me and walk with me,
And show me right and wrong,
I never knew how well myself
And me could get along,
I never tried to cheat me,
I'm as truthful as can be,
No matter what may come or go
I'm on the square with me,
It's great to know yourself
And have a pal that's all your own.

To be such company for yourself
You're never left alone,
You'll try to dodge the masses
And you'll find a crowd's a joke,
If you only treat yourself
As well as you treat other folk.
I've made a study of myself,
Compared me with the lot
And I've finally concluded
I'm the best friend that I've got.
Just get together with yourself,
And trust yourself with you,
And you'll be surprised how well yourself,
Will like you if you do.—Exchange.

Origin of a Crime Lies in Thought.

The origin of all crime lies back of the quick temper which held the knife.

The origin of crime lies in a thought. A crime is the result of a series of thoughts, the first of which may have lodged in the brain of an innocent child.

Men who have studied the workings of the human mind tell us that each thought makes a track upon the brain. That the same thought always travels over the same path. They tell us that the track deepens as the thought passes more and more frequently over the path until the thread-like track becomes a deep rut.

A wagon track, light at first, if constantly driven over, becomes a rut. If the wheels continue to plow into the earth the track is cut deeper and deeper until it is impossible for the wheels to roll out of the rut until it reaches the end of the road.

It is thus with the ruts in the brain. When the path is cut too deep the thought must follow the old course, wherever it leads.

The rut may lead to theft. The rut may lead to lying. The rut may lead to murder.

Every thought, good or bad, if permitted to travel again and again through the mind, leads to some act, good or bad.

Crime has its origin in a thought.

Great prisons have been built, but crime still walks among us.

The habitual wishing to possess what belongs to another too often leads to theft.

The ever-present wish to be rid of one who is hateful too often leads to murder.

Strong walls cannot control crime until brick and mortar can control thought.

And thought is free as the air. It slips past the guard, it passes through the keyhole, it scorns the grating, it laughs at walls of stone. It knows not the terror of the gallows.

Prisons cannot save us, the scaffold cannot free us, the laws cannot protect us from crime. Aie, but where the laws are weak you are strong.

When the walls of the prison are fragile you are powerful. While the hangman's rope can not choke the life from crime, you can.

When the desire for the possession of what belongs to another comes to you, turn it out. Don't wish for what is not your own. Resolve to earn what you would have. Thus a different brain track is made and this track deepened will lead to prosperity, never to theft.

Instead of wishing to rid yourself of one who is hateful, wish yourself higher and better than he. This thought path will lead to a higher plane, where the air is rarer and the sight is clearer, and the hateful one, 'way down at the foot of the mountain which you have climbed, dare not even lift his eyes to the heights upon which you stand. Is that not better than a life behind prison walls?

Man is more powerful than the law.

We are more powerful than the law.

We are more powerful than are the instruments of the law.

We can control thought, and crime begins in thought.—Eve P. Bach.

Brain Leaks.

Some people mistake a sad for religion.

Life's greatest pleasures do not cost money.

Only those who have suffered can truly sympathize.

A friend in need is a friend indeed, not alone in words.

Apple Prospects.

The following resume of the apple prospect by L. A. Goodman, Secretary of the Missouri State Horticultural Society, will be of interest to fruit growers. This report is dated July 15:

After the unprecedented cold of the winter, and the cold East rains of April 15 to 20, we could hardly expect a full crop of apples. While the orchards were in good condition, (and are still in fine shape,) blooming beautifully yet injured vitality of the trees and the failure of the bloom to well pollinate, caused the young apples to drop all through the months of May and June until the prospects for a crop is not good. In some places the fungus damages have been severe and the insect pests have been abundant.

The prospect, therefore, for a crop be:

In the Ozarks, 25 to 35 per cent.

In Central Missouri, 20 to 30 per cent.

In North Missouri, 15 to 25 per cent.

While this is true we have special locations where the crop will be 50 or 60 per cent., and even the small average that the State makes, means because of the large number of orchards, a good many parcels of marketable apples for sale at picking time.

The prospect, so far as heard from, shows less than a half a crop in New York, a little more than a half a crop in Michigan, a still larger percentage in the new Western and Pacific States, this justifies us in saying that the prices will be fairly good and that it will pay us to take care of our apples.

Grapes will be an abundant crop.

Peaches, of course, are a failure.

Pears a very light crop.

Plums a very good crop.

Alfalfa.

With four years of experience in raising alfalfa, I feel that I might give some a little advice. I have at present three different patches, one four years old, one two, and one that has been sowed a little over a year. The first thing to do is to select land that is suitable for it, and for the best results you must have good land—the best land you have on your place. All my alfalfa is in river bottom land where the soil is sandy and very rich. In breaking your land you want to plow as deep as possible and let the seed bed be like a perfect garden.

I always sow about the 15 of April, and never later than May, because the weeds are liable to get ahead of the young plants. The plowing should be done long enough before sowing to allow the soil to settle somewhat, and the land should be clear of weed seed. If the land is foul it will pay to wait a year before sowing—until it can be freed from the weeds. I sow from 15 to 16 lbs. per acre, but this depends on your land and the use you are going to make of it, for pasture or hay. The first year you will have to mow the weeds off three or four times and leave the vegetation on the ground, if the weather is very hot and dry. The next spring rake up and haul off and give the ground a thorough harrowing. Last year I cut five crops off the four year old patch and each time it made two or three tons per acre. I have already mowed the same patch twice this year, and it is ready to be mowed again, and it is a great deal better than last year. I will make a fourth mow off the same ground and from what I have learned it gets better every year.

I have mowed my two year old patch twice and I expect to mow it once more, or perhaps twice more. In cutting it for different stock you cut it at different times. For feeding cattle you should cut while in bloom, but for horses it should stand until the seed pods are fairly developed; it can be fed to all kinds of stock. Hogs will get fat on it with a small amount of corn, and cattle will get fat on it without a single ear of corn; but they should be sheltered in cold weather. It is the best feed I can get for my horses, but I also feed some oats and corn with it, and the horse will eat the alfalfa hay in preference to oats or other kinds of hay. But like anything else you have to work to keep the weeds out the first year, but after the first year you make your hay. It has been shown that it can be grown in the penitentiary district successfully and will pay more than any other grass that can be sown, so let us follow the footsteps of the western farmer and make alfalfa pay, and if anyone wants to know more about it, write, and I will tell them all I know.

J. L. JENKINS,
Bowling Green, Ky.

The farmer should remember that the stomach of a horse is small and hence should be careful to see that his animals have frequent drinks of good pure water during the day. This is especially useful during the summer when the days are hot and dry. It is no easier for the horse to go without a drink from morning until noon and from noon till night than it is for a man, but we find many careless farmers compelling them to it. It is not humane treatment and the horse is too faithful a servant to be denied such a small favor.—Ex.

Low Headed Trees.

The old style orchard was often high headed, with the limbs well up out of the way. The idea was to train the trees so high that teams could be driven under and to keep the limbs above the reach of cattle. Now that these items are of less importance to most orchardists, the tendency is in the opposite direction, until J. H. Hale asks pertinently: "What's the use of a trunk any way?" It may be said in favor of the low down tree that the fruit may be picked at considerably less cost and is not so likely to be blown off by the wind. Spraying is also less difficult. It is in many ways the better tree for those who do not cultivate directly under large trees and who keep cattle away from the orchard. In a row of the Summer apples the trees were cut back much shorter than in many orchards; consequently the limbs are sturdy enough to hold the fruit without bending. These trees averaged about four cases to the tree. The trees branch out about eight or ten inches from the ground.—Farmers Home Journal.

Sheep are naturally healthy, but quickly succumb to disease under unfavorable conditions. Damp pastures are conducive to foot rot, and damp quarters at night produce sickness. There must be ventilation, shade from heat and good cold water.

Twenty-five dollars extra spent in educating and grooming a horse to properly fit him for the market will often find him from $50 to $100 and sometimes more to the selling value.

Amusing Burial.

are instantly relieved, and perfectly healed, by Bucklen's Arnica Salve. C. Rivenbark, Jr., of Norfolk, Va., writes: "I burnt my knee dreadfully; that it blistered all over. Bucklen's Arnica Salve stopped the pain, and healed it without a scar." Also heal all wounds and sores. 25c at T. E. Paul's drugstore.

Weak Bone.

One of the common troubles in hog raising in the corn belt is that of breaking down. Weak legs are due to improper feeding. The pigs will do pretty well while with the sow provided they do not get too much corn, and they will develop very well on good pasture, but when confined to a corn diet they can't develop good strong bone. Milk and grass contain bone-making material, but corn does not. Bone meal, soft coal, wood ashes alfalfa hay or grasses, and such feeds as contain plenty of bone building elements, will balance the corn diet. Go easy on corn except when putting on the finishing touches of market hogs. Just because it is an easy feed to throw out does not make it a proper feed.

Turn your hogs and pigs out on a good pasture and keep them on grass till Fall. Don't feed swill. They will spend too much time squealing at the gate. Give them good water.

Those hogs will look large boned and gaunt all Summer. You may be ashamed to show them to any body, but stick to grass and water. In the Fall when corn is fit, feed it; or better still, start them on old corn gradually and then watch these slab sided porkers fill in the chinks. There is no sense in feeding corn if you have pasture.—Ex.

Grit in Summer.

As the daily foraging of fowls enables them to pick up an enormous amount of grit every day, the grit may be scarce even in Summer, unless on very stony land. Sand is not a substitute for grit. Coarsely ground bone is excellent as grit and serves a double purpose. A few pounds of ground flint, which is sold by those who supply poultrymen, cost but a trifle, and should be used once a week.

When indigestion occurs, it may be due to the lack of sharp material for cutting the food. Gravel does not always answer the purpose, as the gravel may be round and not assist in cutting the grain or other food. I have had excellent results by pounding pieces of glass and giving the hens all that they will pick up. They will accept it readily and it will not injure them in the least if not too coarse. Glass is given regularly by poultrymen who cannot easily obtain other substances as grit.

A Mule Saved Him.

Adolphus Wilson, of Nicholasville, who was in a railroad wreck in Indiana, attributes the saving of his life to the action of a mule. He says: "When I came to my senses a huge timber was lying across my back, which I could not move. In glancing around, looking for help, I discovered a mule standing within a few feet of where I was pinned looking at me as if wishing to render me assistance. Soon the mule turned its heels toward me and began to kick. The first kick struck the timber a glancing lick; the second hit it full, and just grazed my ear, which now shows the mark, as you can see, and somewhat moved the timber. The third kick raised it sufficiently for me to slide from under, and as I arose from the ground, and started to make my way to a farm house, the mule followed, evidently satisfied with the good work accomplished."

Rates Secured.

Arrangements for the big Kentucky State Fair to be held at Lexington September 18-23 go on from day to day, and each week develops some new feature which will add to the success of the big exhibition. Last week the Board of Control engaged the Heck Carnival Company of Cincinnati. The official title of the company is the Will S. Heck World's Fair Pike Shows, and this title signifies what may be expected. Many of the shows were conducted by Mr. Heck on the Pike during the big St. Louis World's Fair and will be reproduced here just as they were given there. All of them were clean and moral in every particular. They include an excellent animal show, a Japanese theater, theaters with moving pictures, etc., a dog and pony show, a Persian theater and many other similar attractions.

The effort which the management of the fair has made to obtain the cheapest possible railroad rates has been rewarded. Secretary Bain has received a letter from Joseph Richardson of Atlanta, Ga., secretary of the Southeastern Passenger Association, stating that the railroads will make a rate of one fare plus 25 cents for the round trip from all points in the State to Lexington during fair week. This rate is virtually a one fare rate and is much more reasonable than the railroads are in the habit of giving for similar entertainments. There will be no doubt be a remarkably large attendance during the week of the fair, and it will come from every section of Kentucky.

It is natural for parents to feel that their children are gifted. At least most of them do. Let a little tot about four years old strike the simple tune of some old familiar song, and the first thing that dawns in the head of the proud mother is that Johnnie or Mary or Susan, will develop into a musician that will some day astound the people of every continent in the world. Then it is that the music teacher is sought and the wonderful accomplishments of the little prodigy are told in emphatic and excited tones. The teacher agrees that it is "perfectly wonderful." When daddy comes home to his dinner he is cornered in the family room and told what Mrs. Jones, the teacher, had to say about the little "morking bird." Very likely he will insist that it will be best to wait awhile, but this is in vain. So the little wonder is started in on Monday morning with his a b c's in music—and nine times out of ten a good mechanic or a good cook is ruined everlastingly.—Harrodsburg Herald.

Beware of the statement "Selling below cost." The vital question to the customer is what it costs him, not what you lose. He knows you are not in the business for fun, and if you are continually admitting that you are selling below cost, he is likely to conclude that either you do not know your business well enough to buy right, or that you are deceiving him. In either case his confidence in you is shaken. Better say "We bought them right, you get the benefit."—Salesmanship.

It seems that the pension of $25,000 from the Equitable society of Mrs. Henry B. Hyde has not been abolished, but that its abolition is under consideration, as well as the question of paying a pension to the future widows of presidents of the society. If men on salaries of $75,000 cannot be trusted to look out for their families and provide for the rainy day, who can? and what would remain to be said against the state pensions for old age among the poor.

Fraud Exposed.

A few counterfeiters have lately been making and trying to sell imitations of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, and other medicines, thereby defrauding the public. This is to warn you to beware of such people, who seek to profit, through stealing the reputation of remedies which have been successfully curing disease, for over 35 years. A sure protection, to you, is our name on the wrapper. Look for it, on all Dr. King's or Bucklen's remedies, as all others are mere imitations. H. E. ANNOUNCEMENTS.

For Notice.

We are authorized to announce A. F. Wilson as a candidate for Judge of Adair County, subject to the action of the Democratic Party.

In adopting for Kentucky the secret official ballot system in elections, its advocates claimed for it, that it would remedy two of the greatest evils attending popular elections. One of these was bribery and the other force, or what is popularly called bulldozing. It appears that, while it has not been a success in either of these purposes in country districts, it has served one good purpose, and one only, and that is to prevent crowding and consequent disorder about the voting places. Yet it may be said that this is not on account of the secret ballot, but on account of that part of the legislative act carrying into effect the constitutional provision, by requiring all persons, except the persons then voting, and the officers of the election, to remain a certain distance from the polls. Has the secret ballot prevented the bribing of voters? Certainly not, but on the contrary thousands of men who under the open ballot would not venture to sell their votes, and who no one would venture to buy, have taken advantage of the secrecy of the voting to buy and sell. Where force has been used there has been means found to use it, and that just as effectively as under the open ballot. In addition to the failure of the secret ballot to eliminate the evils it was intended to eliminate, it has made possible, and developed a lot of evils of greater magnitude than those intended to be remedied. It has developed what is known as ring rule and machine politics. It has virtually eliminated from power or influence the independent voter. It makes a nomination by a dominant party equivalent to an election. If a man can, by a machine, or by bossism, or by any kind of trickery get his name upon the official ballot under the device of the dominant party, where there is a general ticket, that the party desires to elect, he is not concerned as to how little his election may be desired or how many of his party are opposed to his election. He knows that he will go through with the ticket. So that we find men desiring office paying very little attention to the question of personal popularity, or reputation for fitness among the voters generally, but relying upon the machine and the party bases to get party nominations. Under the open ballot when unworthy or unpopular persons happened to get party nominations, it frequently happened that men run and were elected as independent candidates, or the independent voters would vote for and elect the candidate of the opposing party. All of which served to induce party caucuses and conventions to nominate men acceptable to the people, and to deter men who felt that they were not fit or acceptable to the majority of the voters from offering for office. Another thing that has been developed by the secret official ballot system is corruption by election officers. The fact that the way in which the vote is cast is alone within the knowledge of the election officers in the precinct, and that no record is made of how any person voted, admits of all kinds of frauds, and by any means of detection, and if fraud is even detected without any adequate means of correcting the wrong to the voter or the candidate effected thereby. The open ballot will do more than anything else in preventing machine politics, bossism and fraud by election officers. As to good order, so much to be desired at elections, it will have to be had by regulations to keep the polls from being crowded, by providing and enforcing severe penalties against persons who attempt to interfere with voters, or act disorderly in any way upon the voting grounds. Yet with all this Kentucky will never have perfectly fair elections until the whole people, or a decided majority of them, are determined to enforce the laws that are intended to bring about fair elections, and carry that determination into effect through the courts.

We hear it urged as an objection to returning to the "honest system of voting" that there will be confusion and wrangling at the polls over the floaters. This is not a question for consideration, as the adoption of the proposed amendment will not change the law by which every one is required to keep fifty feet from the polls. Unless the Legislature should repeal the present laws, which it is not apt to do, we will go into the voting place and have our vote recorded in the presence of the election officers and the challengers of the two parties. No one else will be within fifty feet of the voter. A record of each vote will be made and the votes will then be counted as cast. Under the present system we do not always get our vote counted as it is cast. Is it not easier to buy two election officers than it is to buy all the floaters? If you are in favor of honest elections and of having your vote counted as it was cast, don't be led astray or driven from the path of duty by the little scare crows suggested by those who hope to profit by a continuation of the fraud-breeding system that has been in use for the past thirteen years. Every true Kentuckian should stand for an honest, open, free and fair election, no matter what may seem best for his party.

Last Saturday President Roosevelt received the Russian and Japanese peace envoys on board the Mayflower at Oyster Bay. The plenipotentiaries were introduced to each other by the President, and afterward were entertained at luncheon. During the luncheon the President offered the following toast: "I drink to the welfare and prosperity of the sovereigns and peoples of the two great nations whose representatives have met one another on this ship. It is my most earnest hope and prayer, in the interest not only of these two great Powers, but of all mankind, that a just and lasting peace may speedily be concluded between them."

The Standard, the local negro organ of Lexington, created quite a stir in that city last Saturday by coming out in an article, demanding that an equal division be given colored aspirants for county and city offices, stating that if it was not done the negroes would vote with the opposite party. This is bad on the Lillie Whites, but if negroes are nominated, they will knock under, support and work for the ticket.

All Democrats are entitled to be present and participate in this convention.

Bleeding Russia now faces future starvation. The crops are reported a total failure in many districts and the government has been officially advised to prepare to cope with a famine far greater than those of 1891 and 1897, when the American people secured the stricken Russians with ship loads of wheat. So many Russians have died with their boots on that, if other military drafts are made, only the women and children will be left to die of starvation.

Saturday week the Democratic Committee of Adair county will meet in this place for the purpose of naming county candidates. All the committeemen are urgently requested to be present.

The yellow fever situation at New Orleans is still alarming. Up to last Saturday there had been 499 cases and 99 deaths. On account of quarantine many mail trains in the South have been temporarily suspended.

The pay of the Russians peace plenipotentiaries is $200 a day and an allowance of $7,500 for traveling expenses.

The Government has a dozen buildings in Kentucky and they cost two and one half million dollars.

Mr. Will Smith, who was bereft of his estimable wife one day last week, desires to express his most grateful thanks to all those who so kindly waited upon her during her illness. Friends in trying hours will never be forgotten.

Mrs. Jo Russell entertained several friends at a 6 o'clock dinner last Wednesday. Mrs. Russell knows how to entertain and upon this occasion a most delightful repast was served. After tea several hours were spent in social converse.

STRAYED.—From John N. Conover's farm, two mares, a black and gray about 15 and 15½ hands high. Information as to their whereabouts wanted.

Hon. J. E. Durham, who was a prominent and influential citizen of Taylor county, died near Campbellsville last Thursday morning. He had represented Green and Taylor counties in the Legislature and was very much interested in the affairs of Taylor county.

Dr. J. D. Russell requests us to state that he is confident that he will bring in a good well at Conover's. He is now down about seven hundred feet and indications are good. The drilling will be delayed a day or two, as the hands are now fishing.

There were quite a number of mules and horses on the market last Monday, but only a few changed hands. A. W. Pedigo bought one mule for $160, and one horse for $165. Coffey Bros. & Young bought three mules at $130 to $125. Coffey Bros., one horse at $130. Leslie Tandy two mules at $210.

Mr. Earl McGarvey, of Lexington, reached Columbia last Thursday night. He is one of the best cornet players, of his age, in the State, understanding music thoroughly. He will spend six weeks in Columbia, instructing the band recently organized. The practice room is over Mr. Newby's grocery.

The drillers are down seven or eighty hundred feet at Conover's and Gradyville, but there has been no tangible indication of oil up to this writing. Work, however, will progress uninterupted, and if the present wells are given up as dry holes others will be started. If there is oil in the county it will be found.

Mr. Jo Strull, of Greensburg, a well-known Hebrew merchant, has a son that was eight days old yesterday. When a Hebrew son reaches that age it is the custom to go through a religious ceremony in the presence of a Rabbi and nine other Jews. This ceremony was performed yesterday. Mr. Sam Lewis, this place, was, by invitation, present.

Oil interest in Cumberland county has not been very encouraging for several months. The output of oil has been on the decrease and men who have been in oil fields for years say that wells in this section of the State have not been drilled to a sufficient depth to bring in lasting and paying producers. Acting upon this suggestion a company with sufficient funds has been organized in Cumberland county and two or three wells, 3,000 feet deep will be put down.

Mr. S. O. Keltner, son of Mr. C. L. Keltner, this county, met with a serious accident at Foolsland, Ill., about two months ago. He was driving a team and the horses became frightened and ran at breakneck speed. Mr. Keltner was thrown from the wagon, crushing one of his feet so badly that it had to be amputated. He is now at the hospital in Chicago, Ill., and is getting along nicely. His father and mother were with him a few days ago. He stood the operation heroically, saying just before the knife was used, "If I die Jesus will take me." The father and mother of the young man will ever remember with grateful hearts all those who so kindly cared for his son.

Miss Ella Dohoney Dead.

Many friends in Adair county will be pained to learn of the death of Miss Ella Dohoney, a young lady of popularity, who possessed a pleasing disposition, intelligent and refined, a school teacher of reputation and loved by all her associates. The end came at the residence of her father, Mr. John C. Dohoney, last Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the sufferer being surrounded by parents, brothers and sisters and a number of friends. She was a victim of typhoid fever and during her illness no patient was ever more tenderly and closely watched, the parents and relatives generally praying that a change for the better might be brought about and the young and lovable daughter restored to health. But fate willed differently and she was called to be with a sister who preceded her to the grave a few years ago. Everybody is in sympathy with the parents, brothers and sisters who have been so sorely bereft. The deceased was a consistent member of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, the funeral services being conducted at Union, Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Revs. Sandilge and Lewis officiating. An immense assembly attended the services. May the Giver of all that is good comfort the stricken family. The deceased was twenty-two years old, and her education was finished at Lebanon, Tenn.

Dropped Dead.

Mr. Alonzo Barger, who was one of the best citizens of Russell county, dropped dead last Monday morning. He was a man about sixty years of age and was a farmer by avocation, his home being two miles from Jamestown. He was a son of Col. Daniel Barger, who in his life time, was one of the most influential citizens in that part of the State. The deceased, Alonzo Barger, was a bright man and had served Jamestown Lodge several years as its Master. He leaves a wife and several children. Mrs. Robt. Royle, of this county, being one of the number. He was a Christian of the truest type and heartily supported the ministry. Peace to his honored memory. Tears and sympathy for his wife and children.

Died.

Hattie McCaffree Smith, the beloved wife of W. C. Smith, who lives in the Cane Valley neighborhood, after an illness of several weeks, died last Wednesday. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. McCaffree and was a lady highly respected for her many Christian virtues. She leaves a broken-hearted husband, two or three loving children, father and mother and several brothers and sisters, all of whom sorely feel their loss, and who have the sympathy of the entire county.

Notice to Town Citizens.

Some time ago, the Board of Health issued an order requiring the town authorities and the citizens generally to clean the city. That order was generally complied with but it needs it again—and now we notify you to put the town in order and keep it so. We are in danger of fearful diseases, and must guard against them. By order of the Board of Health.

U. L. Taylor, Health Officer.

The Survey.

The railway survey from here to Cumberland river was completed last Thursday, and Mr. Adill and the chief engineer returned to this place Friday evening. We are informed that the work is being done under special instructions as to grades, alignment, etc., that the requirements of the instruction were met as to alignment, length of tangents and degree of curvature, and that even better grades were secured than the highest admissible. The chief Engineer feels that he has been entirely successful in doing with a very difficult problem at the Cumberland River. A few comments will bear the name on the Columbia Lebanon survey to meet the requirements mentioned and then the Eastern extension will be proceeded with.

Precautions Needed.

"Health authorities and citizens in every city, town and county are requested and directed to take immediate steps to remove all nuisances and sources of disease within their respective jurisdictions, or upon their premises, and to drain, empty or properly fill or cover all ponds, pools, barrels or other receptacles which are or may become breeding places for mosquitoes, and it is urged that all houses be screened not only against mosquitoes, which may convey yellow fever and malaria, but against flies, which carry typhoid fever, a disease of far more practical importance to our people. It is believed that the fear of yellow fever will prove a blessing to Kentucky if it induces such health reforms as will not only prevent it, but lessen the typhoid fever, diphtheria and other domestic pestilences which cause such a large and needless sick and death rate every year."

By order of the board,
William Bailey, M. D.,
Chester Mayer, M. D.,
J. N. McCormack, M. D.,
Executive Committee.

I wish to call the special attention of the people of Adair county to the above from the State Board of Health, all ways important—these things are doubly so now.

U. L. TAYLOR, Health Officer.

We would suggest at every body cut the weeds in front of their premises, and use a little whitewash or paint. A clean town makes a favorable impression upon visitors.

One of the most interesting meetings that has been held out of town for a number of years, closed at Egypt six miles from Columbia, last Thursday night. It was in progress eleven days, conducted by Eld. A. L. Oler, of this place, who is a strong and forcible speaker and a God fearing man. From the beginning there was fine interest which increased nightly and at the last meeting the church could not hold the people. There were eighteen additions to the church, fifteen by baptism, two restored and one from another church. Miss Ella Condit was the organist, a very efficient one and Mr. Henry Condit and Mr. John Wolford led the song service.

Miss Hostetter Hooks is laid up this week from being bit by a hawk last Sunday. She was to have eloped with Jim Henry Rasmus but Jim's mule jumped the fence the night before and got fouled at a straw stack.

Richard Henstep got drunk Thursday and rode his mule off the Gander creek bridge. The creek was up and him and the mule stayed together. They floated on down and took breakfast with Brother Enick Oliver.

SHOT FOR THE FISH.TWENTY-FIVE TONS OF AMMUNITION CAST INTO SEA.

Obsolete Material Too Dangerous to Give Away So Uncle Sam Disposes of It by Tossing It Overboard.

San Francisco.—[I]f the whales and other big fish which maneuver in the deep waters between Mile Rock and Point Diablo are not all suffering to-day from indigestion or worse it is because they resisted the temptation to sample the bright and shining feast the army tug Slocum has consigned to Davy Jones' locker. For several hours there showered from the Slocum's decks a rain of shot and shell, ammunition of a bygone day, patterned to it guns, long passed out of service; ammunition too old to use and too dangerous to give away.

Twenty-five tons of obsolete fighting material from the Benicia arsenal were dumped overboard from the Slocum, and, unless graced by passing whales, now lie more than 20 fathoms below the surface.

The shells were of the old, round cannon-ball pattern. Some of them were up-to-date in 1862, some were obsolete even then, but it takes Uncle Sam a long time to make up his mind to feed to the fishes explosives and hardware that might be expended to the glory of the flag.

As a mother handles a tiny baby, so with gentle care did the Slocum's sailors pick up the condemned shells, walk tipsy to the rail, reach far out as the arms would stretch, and, with breath held in and eyes tightly closed, drop the missiles into the water. Their care increased in tenderness as the artillery sergeants with their guns detailed to witness the burial of the dangerous junk, regaled the sailors with yarns of how, in such and such a place, while throwing just such shells into the ocean, six good men and true had been blown into smithereens. He told of the peculiar habits of gunpowder and other high explosives. "The least little jar will sometimes do the trick," he remarked once when a sailor stubbed his toe and nearly dropped a rusty cannon ball, "better be careful."

But there was no explosion, and when the Slocum retraced every man felt himself better and graver for his few hours' frolic with death.

Girl Saves Old Monastery. Miss Clara Driscoll, a wealthy Texas girl, has purchased the ruins of the old monastery of Alamo, part of the battlefield where the freedom of Texas was won from Mexico. It was proposed to erect a modern hotel there, but Miss Driscoll stepped in and purchased the spot for $75,000, and will now reconstruct the ancient and renowned edifice to get in.

Just a Joke. Paris says the Japanese are not being taken seriously. It does not appear that they are being taken at all, though they are clearly taking the Russians seriously enough, declares the Louisville Courier-Journal.

It's One Virtue. It's no use putting a present against the hoop skirt, declares the Philadelphia Press. If the dressmaker says so, it will come along again; and crowd you of the skirt and assert itself again. The hoop skirt is not a handsome thing, but it has to have room.

FRENCH PENSION SCHEME.

Government Life Insurance Is Paid Out in Annuities to Poor Subscribers.

Washington.—For more than half a century the French government has been experimenting with schemes for establishing old-age pensions, the first act having been passed June 13, 1850, says United States Consul General John K. Gowdy in a report from Paris to the department of commerce and labor. The plan then tried was not profitable, for the government allowed investors five per cent., which was more than it could itself get, and the rate of interest had to be reduced. Shortly after the war with Germany (in 1873) the number of depositors had greatly increased, and in 1882 there was a deficit of $5,000,000. To make up this the government in 1884 made over to the Caisse des Rentes a sum of $2,514,000 in government bonds, the interest on which—with a small annual grant—amounting in all to $2,515,000, would, it was calculated, meet past and future losses.

In 1895 the act as revised in force was passed, but the question is still one that gives the minister of finance much anxiety, and it is not unlikely that some future changes will be made.

At the present time deposits are received from any person, regardless of age, but the amount may not exceed 500 francs ($80.50) in the course of a year. An account may be opened for a child of three years of age; a married woman may deposit money without her husband's consent.

At any age between 50 and 65 (or earlier in case of permanent disability to work) the depositor may claim his annuity, which is calculated according to the amount of his deposit and interest and the probabilities of life, but the annuity may not exceed 1,200 francs ($231.60). An annuity not exceeding 350 francs ($65.00) is not liable to seizure for debt. In rural districts the tax gatherer is empowered to receive deposits, and in many factories a certain percentage is deducted from the wages and paid to the Caisse in the workman's name. A branch of the Caisse may be founded in any town or village, with the permission of the prefect of the department, and there are about 2,300 of such branches, with nearly 340,000 depositors.

COUST BORE BY ELECTRICITY

Gotham Mayor Has New Telegraphic Scheme by Which He Rids Himself of Delegations.

New York.—Mayor McChellan is going to try a new method of getting rid of bores. Several days ago a representative of an invention for the transmission of writing by electricity suggested to the mayor the advisability of having his office equipped with the device. He explained it would be so much easier for the mayor to communicate with his staff by this method than by having his subordinates respond to a buzzer.

The mayor at first was not taken with the idea, but John O'Brien, his private secretary, saw its possibilities. He pointed out that the transmitting pad could be attached to a shelf under the mayor's desk and that it could be connected with O'Brien's room, so that when the mayor wanted a message raised all he would have to do would be to jot down a call for assistance.

"You see, it's this way," O'Brien explained, "if you want to get free of some one all you need to do is to draw out the shelf and write 'I'll read the message and—'"

"You'll say the delegation of something or other is in waiting outside to tender me a formal indorsement for another term, or that the board of estimate is in session waiting for me," queried the mayor.

"Exactly," responded O'Brien.

"All right. Let 'em put it in," and now O'Brien is waiting for the first victim.

FAIR HERMIT'S QUEER LIFE.

All Alone, with Only Eight Dollars a Month in Sure Income, Veteran's Widow Lives.

Straustown, Pa.—Within sight of Fort Northkill lives Mrs. L. M. Fehr, widow of a veteran of the civil war, on a pension of $8 per month. In an eight-roomed house, surrounded by a garden and a fertile lot on which she raises enough to sustain herself.

Although her hair is silvery white, she is as active as many a younger dame, and cultivates her own garden. Her potato patch produces enough tubers for her annual wants, and her fuel she picks from the mountain side, carrying in the old sticks during summer time.

For tea she uses the sweet-flavored golden rod, known to many as the Blue Mountain tea, and earns many a dime picking berries of all kinds and chestnuts.

Thus, all alone with her hens, and nearly three miles from town, she nevertheless reads the daily news in the papers that friends bring to her.

It's One Virtue.

It's no use putting a present against the hoop skirt, declares the Philadelphia Press. If the dressmaker says so, it will come along again; and crowd you of the skirt and assert itself again. The hoop skirt is not a handsome thing, but it has to have room.

PROPOSED IN HIS SLEEP.

Wyoming Ranchman, Defendant in Breach of Promise Case, Makes Singular Plea.

Bordeaux, Wyo.—If Miss Katherine Rippin, a young school-teacher, executed her threat to sue Simon Brandt for breach of promise, Brandt will go into court and defend the suit on the ground that to his knowledge he never made a proposal of marriage to Miss Rippin, and that if he did propose to her he did it when asleep, and therefore is not to be held to a moral or legal accountability for his act.

Brandt is a ranchman, well to do and good looking. Miss Rippin has obtained legal advice, and the case will soon come to trial. Miss Rippin will testify that Brandt made a proposal of marriage to her and that she promised to marry him one night last winter when he called on her and sat up with her until after midnight.

Brandt will admit he spent the evening with Miss Rippin and sat up with her until after midnight. But he will deny that he consciously made a proposal of marriage to her.

He will seek to show by witnesses that ever since he was a boy he has been addicted to the habit of talking, walking and doing other things in his sleep, and that what he said and did in his sleep he was unable to recall after he awoke.

They will testify that they have known him to fall into a sleep, or a mental state resembling sleep, when sitting in his chair, and in his sleep carry on an apparently rational conversation, and then to wake up unconscious of a word he had said.

PASTOR "WIPE" ENGINES.

Rev. Potter, of Oakland, Cal., Begins Work in Railroad Yards as Sociological Study.

San Francisco.—That he may familiarize himself with the trials, tribulations and temptations of the army of railroad men in Oakland, Rev. Dwight E. Potter, pastor of the Union Street Presbyterian church, has begun an ordinary engine wiper in the West Oakland railroad yards. Attired in blue overalls and with a bunch of waste in his hands, Mr. Potter crawled under a hot, dirty locomotive and began his task.

The pastor's church is not far from the yards of the Southern Pacific company and many large manufacturing establishments. His sympathies always have been with the men who work and his ambition has been to benefit them in any way in his power. His orders were to clean the engines, so he began with that.

It is Mr. Potter's desire to work in every department for a time, and he chose the lowly position of engine wiper to begin with. He asked that he be given exactly the treatment that would be accorded the newest and greenest hand on the road. He was given what he asked for.

Mr. Potter did not return to his own home after the first day's work. He had hired a small room in a West Oakland lodging-house that he the home of many of the laboring men in the West Oakland yards. He desires that his experience shall be thorough.

DIDN'T WEAR TROUSERS.

Teacher of Military Tactics Forgets His Class Is Composed of Women —They Applaud a "Break."

New Haven, Conn.—Capt. Smoke, in charge of military tactics at the summer school here, during the lecture yesterday on the rudiments of drill, branched off on the subject: "Standing at Attention." The room was nearly full of women, for this season to have become a popular course with young ladies who want to know all about theatrical war. Only a handful of men were present. The captain has explained these things to his Yale boys so often he now repeats them glibly without thinking of what he is saying.

"In standing at attention," he said, quoting the words of the manual, "let the arms and hands hang naturally by the sides, with the little finger opposite the seam of the trousers."

The cheering section among the young women immediately was heard when Capt. Smoke talked about trousers, and the lecture had a break in it of several minutes before the gallant captain was allowed to proceed.

Gold Found in Donegal. Sexton P. Milligan, the British antiquary and geologist, in the course of investigations in a remote mountainous part of Donegal, Ireland, struck gold-bearing quartz reputed to produce two ounces to the ton.

With some friend he immediately took a lease of the ground, with options on the adjoining land, and the lease has already been followed to a depth of 30 feet. The whereabouts of the discovery has been kept secret, but the news caused much excitement in Donegal and the adjoining counties. Gold was found in considerable quantities in Wicklow in past ages, and ornaments made of native gold are numerous.

It needs but little foresight, to tell that when your stomach and liver are badly affected, grave trouble is ahead, unless you take the proper medicine for your disease, as Mrs. John A. Young, of Clay, N. Y., did. She says: "I had neuralgia of the liver and stomach, my heart was weakened, and I could not eat. I was very bad for a long time, but in Electric Bitters, I found just what I needed, for they quickly relieved and cured me." Best medicine for Long Life in Missouri.

The manager of a museum heard of a man in a nearby town who was 103 years old. The manager decided that it would be a good thing for his museum to get this old man as an attraction.
So one day he drove over to the Missouri town where the reputed old man resided and arriving at the home described, found an old man working in the yard. He inquired the man's name and found it was the same that had been given him. He then asked if it was a fact that he was 103 years old.
The old man answered that he was, in a sort of matter of fact way, as though it was nothing unusual. The manager of the museum then told him that he had come to get him to join his museum and said there would be nothing to do only sit on exhibition, look nice and answer questions and draw a good salary.

The old man thought a moment and then replied, "Yes, that would be very nice and I would like to go, but I could not."
"Why not?" said the museum manager.
"My father would not consent."
"Great Scott, man! You don't mean to say your father is alive?"
"Oh yes, he's alive."
"Where is he?"
"Upstairs putting grandfather to bed."

Adding to His Navv.

Japan is steadily making additions to its naval strength. Except the battleship Sevastopol, was torpedoed by the Japanese, all the war-ships sunk by Russia in the harbor of Port Arthur have been raised, refitted and added to the Japanese navy. When the Russian ships captured in the battle of the Sea of Japan are repaired, and those inter-ed are handed over to Japan, the Japanese navy will rank along with that of any world-power, excepting Great Britain.

It is a curious fact that the Russian efforts to destroy their own fleet at Port Arthur failed utterly. It is true the vessels were sunk, but not one was ever seriously disabled, and, with one exception, all of them will soon be flying the Japanese flag. When the battle-ship Peresviet was raised, it was found that she could be navigated with her own engines.

All told, when Japan has acquired her rightful spoils of war, its navy will comprise more than a dozen battle ships and forty armed cruisers, and, excepting England, she can fairly well hold her own with any world's power.
In the matter of fighting qualities and ability to handle vessels, it is far ahead of any nation except England and the United States. As a matter of fact, a naval war between this country and Japan would be no summer day affair.
As a world-power Japan is now to be reconciled with any nation that crosses her road of destiny.

How Not to Do It.

The dates and arrangement of the state and county fairs are now in order, and it is not out of place to call attention to the lack of recognition of poultry by managers. It is this utter disregard of the importance of poultry on the part of fair managers that has kept the industry in the background, compared with other departments of farming. The premium offered for the best pair of fowls of any breed at some fairs is not sufficient to pay the expressage on the birds to the fair grounds in many cases, and any old out-building seems good enough for the purpose. All the novelties and pet stock are thrown in among the poultry, and the coops are small and very unsuitable for the purposes. There is an ignorance of poultry raising displayed by fair managers that cannot fail to be noticed by those visitors and exhibitors who are interested in poultry, and there has been but little progress made in the poultry department of fairs, compared with other exhibits. There are a few exceptions, but the poultry interests demand greater recognition, and should be encouraged as a source of wealth that is much more available to the majority than many others.

CALIFORNIA

Do you want to live where the climate is mild the year round—where labor is never oppressed by stress of weather, and where animal vitality is never lost by mere conflict with cold?

Do you want to live in a region where the resources are more varied than in any other equal area in the world, where the division of great ranches affords a fine opportunity to get a small farm that will assure you a competence?

Do you want to live where, with a minimum of labor, you can grow profitable crops of grapes and small fruit, oranges, lemons, olives, prunes and almonds, alfalfa and grain, where crops are sure, business is good and capital easily finds profitable investment?

Then go to California, where both health and opportunity await your coming.

The Chicago, Union Pacific and North-Western Line

is the most direct route to the Pacific Coast, and there are two fast through trains daily via this line, over the famous double-track railway between Chicago and the Missouri River. One-way Colonist tickets are on sale daily, March 1 to May 25, at the rate of $33.00 from Chicago, with correspondingly low rates from all points, give you an unusual chance to make the trip.

These tickets are good on daily and personally conducted excursions, on which a double berth in a Pullman tourist sleeping car from Chicago costs only $7.00. Round-trip tickets are always on sale from all points at reduced rates via the Chicago & North-Western, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific Railways.

CORRESPONDENCE.

ADAIR AND ADJOINING COUNTIES.

BLISS.

Mrs. Jake Miller was on the sick list several days ago.

Mrs. Mary Flowers, of Grady-ville, is visiting Mrs. Wm. Francis.

Miss Lena Salmon is teaching school at Beachville, Metcalfe county.

Hay is plentiful in this section the numerous stacks most anywhere indicating it.

Miss Carrie Flowers, of Columbia, was visiting Miss Della Mitchell last week.

Judge T. A. Murrell and wife, of Columbia, spent Tuesday night at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Murrell.

Among the largest crops of wheat threshed in this section was that of Mr. C. Whit Flowers and son's, who made as much as 405 bushels of first class grain.

The wheat threshing season is about over in this part; the crop turns out excellently in quality, as well as quantity at some places, and satisfactory at others.

Mrs. Herriford and sister, Mrs.
Jennie Parish and son, John, of Burkesville, visited the formers son, Chas. Herriford here one week, returning home Tuesday.

Jake Miller and John Troutman went to Russell county Friday morning to buy some hogs with a view of fattening for pork.
Hogs are scarce in this locality.

The hay baling press Chas.
Herriford ordered, has after some delay come here. Several farmers signify a desire to have their straw baled. They will find it greatly to their advantage as well as having hay pressed that way.

H. R. Thurman, one of our good old citizens left here Friday afternoon accompanied Tyman Atkins for Lincoln county to spend nine or ten days visiting the formers old friends and relatives as well as recuperating.

Mr. Jerry Shirley, of Carrollton, Mo., who has been visiting in this county for some time, has returned home, being accompanied as far as Hart county by Miss Celeste Shirley and Henry Harrison, of near Milltown, and Miss Levia Sandidge, of this place, for a few days visit.

A. W. Paxton, the overseer with a force of hands have worked the road between this place and Columbia two days of the past week. He has had some work done in a good shape. Should such the work be kept up in a business-like way, we shall certainly have one of the best highway in Adair.

RUSSELL SPRINGS

Judge Wm. Stone, of Monticello was here last week.

Judge Simpson, of Jamestown, is among the number who are here for their health.

The Sunday School Convention held at this place on the 29th and 30th, was well attended.

A series of meetings are being held at the Baptist church by Revs. Adkins the pastor, and Stallings, of Smith's Grove, Ky.

The Russell Springs Medical Association held its regular annual session here last Thursday.
A number of physicians were present.

On last Thursday morning
while returning from a neighbor's house, Mr. George Warren, an old veteran and a respected citizen of this town fell helpless on the street. He was carried home and a doctor was summoned, but he survived only a few minutes.

He had been in very feeble health for a number of years.

We are glad to see the town continue to build up, both in population and business houses.
Mr. W. F. Smith who has been living in Texas for a number of years, and Dr. Hammonds, of Pelletton, Ky., have recently cast their lot with us. There are a number of others who, we understand will locate here before the opening of the winter term of schools. There are two new stores, one already complete and open, and the other will be completed as soon as possible.
Mr. J. E. Snow says that he expects to begin work soon on a two story building, the lot in front of the Academy building.
The lower story is to be an undertaker's shop, and the upper story is to be used as a lodge hall.

HATCHER.

R. H. Turner was in Louisville Tuesday buying goods for the firm of J. L. Turner.

Several of Mr. Hugh Gilson's family have been sick with malarial fever, but are improving at present.

The road overseers have been working the public pathways this week. It is almost useless to repair roads this late.

If nothing happens to the present corn crop, this will be the banner one. Crops of all kinds except hay are better than usual.

Some electric belt vender has swooped down in this county, and he is finding lots of prey.
If ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise.

Wm. Sapp, (Kentucky Bill) has been on the road some time, giving entertainments at different public school houses. He is a great impersonator.

Miss Gertrude Hicks, Lyons, Kansas, is visiting relatives in this county. Her father and mother moved to Kansas from this place when she was quite young.

A camp-meeting begins at Acton on the 11th. Rev. W. E.
Ramsey, Evansville, Ind., will have charge of the meeting, Rev.
E. R. Bennett, Hawesville, will look after the song service.

Rev. W. H. C. Sandidge and D. C. Henderson are conducting a series of meetings at Liberty.
A good deal of interest is being manifested and in all probability the church will be greatly blessed.

There have been more deaths of influential citizens in Taylor county the last two years than any other like period in its history. Number after number may be named, and the churches and communities are feeling the effects.

Misses Birdie and Grace Linney, Harrodsburg, who have been visiting in this county several weeks, returned to their respective homes Tuesday. They added quite a list of friends to their credit while here, and the young people will gladly welcome them any time they may want to return. Miss Grace is a recent graduate of her home college, and speaks several different languages fluently.

J. E. Durham, one of the best citizens of our county, was found dead in his bed Thursday morning. He went to bed apparently well, and the supposition is that it was heart failure. Mr. Durham represented Green and Taylor counties in the long memorable session of the State Legislature.

He made a creditable record, and the county sustains a great loss in his death. He was an Elder of Bethel Church. His remains were interred in the family grave yard near his home.
Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Chumley.

to bring their class and assist in
